Colin Smith – CEO of LMCNI. The Livestock and Meat Commission for Northern Ireland (LMC) is an Executive Non-Departmental Public Body, which was established to assist the development of the livestock and livestock products industries.

Colin has worked for the LMC since 2012 and more recently in 2024 appointed as the Chief executive. With over a decade's experience working with LMCNI, Colin is a wealth of knowledge in the industry. LMC provide vital services to the NI meat industry including Market information, Industry development, FQAS, as well as marketing and education.

Parklands Veterinary group / MSD Animal health veterinarian –

Parklands Veterinary Group is a long-established practice providing veterinary care throughout Northern and Southern Ireland. Parklands Veterinary Group has five separate species departments, staffed by over 30 vets and supported by their own teams. Specific to the sheep industry they provide services including ram fertility testing, Jaagsiekte screening and Sheep production and fertility.

MSD Animal Health provide information, technologies and veterinary services that advance animal healthcare. MSD are a provider of animal vaccinations and treatments. In a time of uncertainty within the sheep industry veterinary professionals from these divisions will aim to provide information on specific sheep diseases including but not limited to MV, Scab, Bluetongue and Schmallenberg.

Speakers will be followed by a Q&A session from the audience.
